Check out the big bass of Lake Guerrero!

October 2005

"Eight customers return from Mexico on a dove hunt. Richard, my main contact, said the entire group thought it was the best trip they had ever been on. The service from the time they picked them up at the airport to the time they dropped them off, could not have been better. They arrived on Thursday, started shooting on Friday and shot so much that four of them needed a break on Saturday; instead of letting them just sit around, the outfitter took them fishing on Guerrero at no extra charge. They caught a boat full of fish including one largemouth that weighed over 15 lbs. Obviously Richard said he would highly recommend this outfitter to anyone." Greg, OC-OK

"The facts say it all: two fishermen, TWO HUNDRED TEN BASS, one over eight pounds, one over 10 pounds and an even bigger one that will be talked about over and over again as the one that got away. At least we got a picture of the tree it was hiding beside.

We hit the post spawn and the action was great. Our guide has worked for the lodge for a long time and he knew how to get us on the fish. The fishing wasn't the only thing that was great. Just like all who stay at the lodge, we were treated like royalty.

From the time they picked us up at the airport in Harlingen, Texas, to the time they dropped us off at the end of our stay, we had great service. The unlimited beverages started in the van for the trip to and from the lodge. They keep a cooler full outside of your room. The nacho chips that were always available were prepared with fresh toppings. Every meal was delicious. They even had a cooler on the boat. Catching large bass is not new to this lodge."

April 2007

Lake Guerrero keeps getting better. I was fortunate enough to go to Lake Guerrero again this April with a few bass fishing addicts. There were four boats, 2 people per boat, on the water for 4 days. The action started fast with Lyle landing a 9 lb 1 oz bass in the first few minutes. That sure got everybody excited. Before the fishing was over, I lost track of how many bass we caught and how many were over 5 lbs, but I knew there were over 15 bass weighing better than 5 lbs. That included the few caught by our guides when we asked them to fish with us.

My biggest bass was only 5 lbs, 8 oz, but when I was kidding with my guide about the crank bait he let me use not being any good. I had him take over so I could have a frosty beverage. Two casts later he taught me a lesson. He brought in a 7 lb, 1 oz bass.

Big Bass honors went to Richard who boated the largest bass of his life with a 12lb 5oz monster. Everybody at the lodge was excited to see it. Many pictures were taken by a lot of different people holding the fish. I wonder how many "fish stories" were told when those pictures were shown around. Large quantities of bass were being caught in some sessions with over 30 being boated by Robbie in one session.

Everyone agreed the lodge service was the best they had ever experienced anywhere. The food was excellent and the cold beverages were always available. Big bass and large quantities are always possible on this lake. It looks like several of us are returning next year in February to hit the pre-spawn action with maybe a little quail hunting added to the adventure. There were a lot more people at the lodge this year than last year, which indicates the word is out that Lake Guerrero is a fantastic destination once again. The popularity of Lake Guerrero is growing! Ron
